xLongevity eyes for Global Expansion with 4 New Centers, 20 Partnerships, and unveils Holistic AI Longevity Platform at Web Summit 2024

Lisbon, Portugal – October 27, 2024: xLongevity, a leader in wellness and personalized longevity solutions, proudly announces the launch of four new longevity centers in India and Switzerland, along with 20 strategic partnerships currently in the onboarding phase. These developments, coupled with the debut of its AI-integrated Longevity Platform, mark a major step forward in the company's vision to redefine longevity through innovation in science and collaboration.

Rapid Global Expansion & Growing Partnerships

The four newly launched centers will provide state-of-the-art wellness solutions, integrating advanced diagnostics, therapies, and personalized health programs. These centers play a pivotal role in expanding xLongevity's presence and ability to serve a growing global audience.

With 20 centers already signed up and currently onboarding, xLongevity is seeing significant traction, a powerful validation of its solutions. "These partnerships represent eager early adopters ready to integrate and utilize our platform. Each center reflects a key step toward scaling our impact, and we're excited by the rapid growth of our network as momentum accelerates," said Pierre-Edouard Sottas, CEO, xLongevity.

Introducing the Holistic AI Longevity Ecosystem Platform

At the heart of this expansion is xLongevity's Holistic AI Longevity Ecosystem Platform. The platform combines AI-powered diagnostics, personalized recommendations, and real-time monitoring to deliver a seamless, individualized health experience. This digital ecosystem integrates with partner services, empowering users to proactively manage their health and extend their healthspan.

"Our AI platform represents the future of proactive wellness, empowering individuals and partners with tools that are scalable and deeply personalized," added Sunny Gambhir, Founder and CTO, xLongevity.

"As the market shifts toward more proactive healthcare solutions, our platform serves as both a differentiator and an enabler for long-term success."

Driving the Future of Longevity

With the demand for personalized health solutions on the rise, xLongevity's expanding network and platform ensure it stays ahead of industry trends. This ecosystem not only addresses the preventive side of healthcare but also creates opportunities for hospitality and wellness providers to enhance their offerings through technology and interventions.
